About our bursaries:

- The Alex "Sugarcamp" MacDonald Memorial Bursary honours Brother Alex MacDonald who died in May, 2001. Alex was on the Executive Council of the Nova Scotia Federation of Labour for 13 years, the last 10 as Secretary-Treasurer. He was a founding member and major supporter of the NSFL Workplace Education Program and Chairperson of the NSFL Education Committee. His contributions to the Labour Movement and his community were immense.
- The Glenda Cooper Memorial Bursary remembers Sister Glenda Cooper, who was a dedicated worker for the Federation of Labour for over 30 years. This Bursary was established to honour her tireless commitment to the labour movement up until her death in 1995.
- The J.K. Bell Memorial Bursary is awarded in honour of Jimmy "J.K." Bell, who served as Secretary-Treasurer of the Nova Scotia Federation of Labour from 1965-85 and was also a fulltime representative with the Marine Workers' Federation. J.K. was inducted into the Canadian Labour Hall of Fame in May of 1994. He died three months later.
- The Joe Gannon Memorial Bursary has been awarded since 1966 in honour of labour activist Joe Gannon. Joe was a dockyard worker in Halifax and was President of the Halifax-Dartmouth and District Labour Council and a Regional Vice-President of the CLC. He died in 1965 and this Bursary honours his dedication to working people.
- Leo F. McKay Memorial Bursary is funded by American Income Life (AIL), a unionized insurance company. AIL gives the Federation $1000.00 each year for this Bursary, which honours former NSFL Executive Secretary Leo McKay's contributions to the Labour Movement. He devoted over 30 years to the Federation of Labour until he retired in 1993. Leo passed away in July 2011.
